THE KING OF THE CRADLE.

Draw back the cradle-curtains, Kate,
Whilst watch and ward you're keeping,
Let's see the monarch life in state,
And view him whilst he's sleeping.
He smiles and clasps his tiny hand,
As sunbeams in come streaming;
A world of baby-fairy land
He visits while he's dreaming.

Monarch of pearly powder-puff
Asleep in nest so cozy,
Shielded from the breath of breezes rough
By curtains warm and rosy;
He slumbers soundly in his cot,
As weak as one decrepit,
Though King of Coral, Lord of Bell,
And Knight of Bath that's tepid.

Ah, lucky tyrant! happy lot!
Fair watchers without number
To sweetly sing beside his cot,
And hush him on to slumber;
White hands in wait to smooth so neat
His pillow when it's rumpled,
On couch of rose-leaves fresh and sewet,
Not one of which is crumpled.

Will yonder dainty dimpled hand—
Size nothing and a quarter—
E'er clasp a sabre, lead a band
To glory and to slaughter?
And, may I ask, will those blue eyes—
In baby patois "peepers"—
E'er in House of Commons rise,
And strive to catch the Speaker's?

Though rosy, dimpled, plump and round,
Though fragile, soft and tender!
Sometimes, alas, it may be found
The thread of life is slender!
A little shoe, a bitten glove—
Affection never waning—
The shattered idol of our love,
By all that is remaining!

Then does one chance, in fancy, hear,
Small feet in childish patter,
Tread soft as they a grave draw near,
And voices hush their chatter;
'Tis small and new, they pause in fear,
Beneath the gray church tower,
To consecrate it by a tear,
And deck it with a flower.

Then take your babe, Kate, kiss him so,
Fast to your bosom press him!
Of mother's love what does he know,
Though closely you caress him,
Ah, what a man will be that boy,
What mind and education!
If he fulfils the hope and joy
Of mother's aspiration.

GERMAN AND SWISS WOMEN.

Mrs. Dr. Stone, wife of Rev. Dr. Stone, editor of the Kalamazoo Telegraph, has been traveling in Europe. The following is the graphic account she gives of the women:

Woman's lot has, in no country, appeared to me as more sad and old age more pitiful than here. Childhood is beautiful and joyous. The peasant children even, are almost invariably pretty, and their ways graceful and pleasing; but it is rarely among the working classes that I see a woman advanced beyond the earliest years of her married life and motherhood, but she looks as if bent and crushed by the burdens which God never made her to bear. Not three days since I saw a woman harnessed with a cow, and drawing a cart, which a man—doubtless her husband, was conducting and driving! In the field, the heaviest, hardest work seems assigned to her. Where a man and his wife have rowed a boat for me, I have seen the heaviest oar assigned to the woman, It was so the other day, as on the beautiful lake of Bienne, a man and his wife rowed Miss P. and myself across the lake to Rosseau's Island.—The woman appeared so much like the man's slave that I had the curiosity to ask if that woman was his wife. "Ya, sie ist meine frau," was his reply. His little girl was in the boat, and was learning of her father how to row the boat. I inquired about her school. She could read—had learned to write, and went to school nine months in the year. All children must go to school, the father said. All, too, in that village were Protestants. There was a church, a school, railway and telegraph station, which ought to have proved better civilizers, all of them, than was shown they had done by the woman's holding the heaviest oar, and being the one to jump out into the water to pull the boat ashore for us to get out, and then to walk a mile to show us the way to Rosseau's house, while her husband sat and rested in the boat. During the passage she had hardly spoken, and did not seem conscious of anything but her work, about which she received occasional short imperative directions from her husband, but alone with us in the island, her face lighted up, and I found her more intelligent than her husband, and capable of speaking a purer language than he. She spoke in either German or French, told us many things of interest in the island, about an autumnal festival held there every year, the house where Rosseau lived in exile, etc. She seemed to know who he was and something of his history, and communicated to us in good French or German, while her husband seemed neither to understand or speak but a few sentences of anything but the miserable patois of the lower classes.

It is a most pitiful sight, the number of comparatively young women that one sees here with forms so bent that their backs look as though they were broken by carrying the heavy weights that, from childhood, have been strapped to their shoulders, while not unfrequently a similar burden is borne upon their head. While walking very early the other morning along a path in the valleys among the mountains, I was overtaken by a woman with two little children, one six and the other four years old, as she told me. I think she could not have been more than twenty five years old herself. She gave me as she passed, as is the invariable custom, a pleasant "bon jour, madame." I returned it, and, walking some distance by her side, held quite a conversation with her. It was quite a chilly morning, and there had been a heavy rain the day but one before this; the fields were very wet and the frost was glistening on the grass by the roadside. She had a basket almost as tall as herself, strapped to her shoulders, and was on her way to the field to dig potatoes. In the conversation she told me she had three children, and had left in the house one younger than the two she had with her, who were going to pick up the potatoes as she dug them. She was slightly built, and, as a child, must have been very pretty; but her face was not only furrowed, but checked with wrinkles, as I have seen a few of our young soldiers, who have returned from the war looking like old men, after an experience in Andersonville or Libby prisons.

The women are usually small; I have scarcely seen a tall or stout woman in Switzerland, but the weights which peasant women bear on their shoulders are astonishing. The baskets of hay and straw and corn-stalks that they carry thus, corded down to their utmost compactness, are almost, or quite, as large as one of the haycocks into which mowers gather the hay in our fields. Looking from my window this morning at 6 o'clock, I saw a woman passing under it with such a basket of straw on her shoulders, immense, reaching far above her head, and on the top of that was a bag of corn as large as those in which corn is carried to market with us. Four men, one or two of them with some light implements, and the others with nothing in their hands, walked by her side and chatted with her.

Lincoln and Seymour.

After one of the President's proclamations calling for more men had been apportioned among the different States, Gov. Seymour went to Washington to urge upon Mr. Lincoln the reduction of the quota of New York. Early in the day, after his arrival, he sent in his card; but the President surmised his errand, and the day wore away while he gave audience to other callers. At three o'clock he ordered the office-door to be thrown open and the waiting throng admitted. As they came in, completely filling the room, Mr. Lincoln said, "I will first see Governor Seymour, of New York." Gov. Seymour went forward and took a seat near the President, and in a low tone stated his errand. Mr. Lincoln sat in silence till he had concluded; then, raising his voice so as to be heard by those present, he replied: "When other Governors of States come here, they ask what they can do to help hold up my hands; but you come and ask me to release you from doing what others do cheerfully and with alacrity." Then taking up a card before him, turned and said, "I will see Mr. —— next," thus terminating the interview.

A Cretan Chief.

Among the brave men who, in the ill-fated Island of Crete, are sustaining, single-handed, against a powerful and brutal foe, the cause of civilization and freedom, there is one portrait, as we find it drawn in a Greek journal, is is worthy of a place beside the figures of the old Homeric heroes. DEMETRIOUS PETROPOULAKI is indeed a striking proof, if one were needed, that the ancient blood of Greece still runs in the veins of living men. Seventy years of war and suffering have left their mark upon his gigantic form, fatigue and wounds, and exposure have made visible inroad even upon his iron frame. Half patriarch, half cavalier, there is an expression of resignation to suffering on his face, and a look as of a dying lion in his half-closed black eye, while an ineffable smile of goodness dwells on his lips, beneath his long, heavy moustache, and his hands are slashed with sabre cuts, and so riddled has he been with balls that when he speaks you can hear every word produce a painful hissing in his breast. All over his martyred flesh is written the epic of his life. An unchanging gentleness, an august serenity, exhale, as it were, from his person. The impression he leaves upon you is that of the just man who, content with the past, and of peace with God, awaits his hour in confidence. Chief of a powerful clan in Maina, that small district, the home of the ancient Spartan, which the Turks have never been able to penetrate. Demetrious Petropoulaki has ever been faithful to the manners of his ancestors, and the white tunic and scarlet sash—the splendid costume of Scanderbeg—still lend their aid to enhance the majesty of his person.—Careless of the presence of men, he falls upon his knees at his wonted hour, and prays to the God of battles as a patriarch might have prayed, or a Highland Chief. By day he journeys over mountains and through valleys on his sorrel mule, stopping sometimes by the way through fatigue or pain. At night he spreads a bit of carpet, and, stretching himself out on it, discourses with his faithful followers of the perils they have encountered, and of the victory that is to come. He himself never sleeps, only slumbers; rises up gently if he hears one of his companrestlessly moving, in order to spread over him his own sole covering, and then returns to lie down on the bare ground. Leonidas heads the phalanx and followed by his son Georges Petropoulaki; for three generations of this race are there fighting for the freedom of Crete. The aged Chief remains behind until the last palicar is in line, and then seated on his mule, he rides on tranquil and fearless, into the midst of the balls, with his majestic cry, "On my children."

A LAWYER'S OPINION OF LINCOLN

The Hon. S. M. Cullom, the present representative of the Springfield district in Congress, a distinguished lawyer of Illinois, once expressed, while Mr. Lincoln was living, this opinion of his distinguished associate:

"Had I an important law case, and desired an opinion in five minutes, I would not value Mr. Lincoln's opinion beyond that of many others: but if Mr. Lincoln had time to give the matter careful consideration, and would give his opinion, I would rather have it than that of any living man. His opinion thus obtained was never broken down in our courts."

☞ The Lacrosse Democrat boasts that it has, next to The Weekly Tribune, the largest subscription of any political newspaper in the counrty. It has won this extensive patronage by the most open, hearty, determined championship of the Rebel cause. It predicted and virtually demanded President Lincoln's assassination; it exulted, and still exults, over that fiendish crime; and it day by day denounces the National Debt as a huge, atrocious swindle, which is to be wiped out so soon as the Democracy achieves power. Here is one of its latest utterances:

"Rebellion a crime," Liar in your throat, Phil Sheridan! Every hour justifies the acts of those who, from Bull Run to Richmond, through four years of battle and blood, sacrifices and struggles, labored, suffered, fought, died for the cause of civil freedom. Every passing day proves the soundness of their judgement, the wisdom of those who strove for independence. Every revolting year makes the 'lost cause' more sacred to the lovers of liberty, dearer to the hearts of those who were faithful to it from its inception to its temporary fall."

A. D. Richardson, in his new work on the West, tells the following anecdote:

The —th Kansas Infantry acquired rare reputation for plundering during the great rebellion. A number of Kansas regiments marching through Missouri, revenged themselves upon their old enemies; but this had unapproachable genius for plunder, which the camp stories used to illustrate with genuine American exaggeration. One of them ran thus: In an Arkansas campaign, general officer found the entire ——th grouped around a saw-mill, and weeping like Niobes.

"Why, boys," he asked, "what's the matter?"

"Matter enough!" sobbed one enterprising volunteer. "Thus far, we have never left anything behind us; but we can't possibly steal this saw-mill!"

SKINNING THE "CONFEDERACY."—When Grant went to Washington to receive his appointment as Lieutenant-General, he stated to Mr. Lincoln his plan, which was to occupy with the Army of the Potomac, the main rebel army in Virginia, while Sherman destroyed the Confederacy.

Mr. Lincoln replied: "I see; you will hold the legs while Sherman skins."

NEVER ALONE.—A pious cottager residing in the center of a long and dreary heath, being asked by a visitor, "Are you not sometimes afraid in your lonely situation, especially in the winter?" replied, "Oh, no; for Faith shuts the door at night, and Mercy opens it in the morning."

☞ "The advantages of advertising" have just received a crious andu amusing illustration in Boston. A wealthy gentleman of that city, who owns a country residence in the suburbs, becoming dissatisfied with it, determined to have an other, and instructed an auctioneer famous for his descriptive powers to advertise it in the papers at private sale, but to conceal the location, telling purchasers to apply at his office. In a few days the gentleman happened upon the advertisment, was pleased with the account of the place, showed it to his wife, and the two concluded that it was just what they wanted and that they would secure it at once. So he went to the office of the auctioneer and told him that the place advertised was such a place as he desired and he would purchase it. The auctioneer burst into a laugh, and told him that that was the description of his own house, where he was then living. He read over the advertisement again, ponderd over the grassy slopes "beautiful vistas," "smooth lawns," etc,. and broke out:—"Is it possible! Well auctioneer, make out my bill for advertising and expenses, for by George! I would'nt sell my place now for three times what it cost me!"

Letter of a True and Loving Wife.

A NEAT pamphlet with addresses by Hons. Schuyler Colfax, Richard Yates Wm. E Dodge, Henry Wilson, J. B. Grinnel, Samuel Mc Kee, Hiram Price, F. E. Woodbridge and J. W. Patterson at the first meeting of the Congressional Temperance Society, in the Capitol, Washington, D. C., Feb. 17, with a list of members, is published by S. R. Wells, New York.

Richard Yates of Illinois in his brief word full of emotion and manly resolve read a note from Mrs. Yates, full of the hearfelt interest of a noble woman's soul. He said:

"After I signed this pledge, I wrote to a litle lady out in Illinois, who weighs about a hundred pounds, has black hair and flashing black eyes, and a form fairer than Grecian chisel ever woke from Parian marble, and I received the following answer:

"My Dear Richard:—How beautiful is this morning! how bright the sun shines! how sweet our birds sing! how joyous the children! how happy is my heart! I see the smile of God. He has answered the prayer. Always proud of your success, you have now achieved that success which God and the angels will bless It is the shining summit of human aspiration, for you have conquered yourself. All who love you will aid you to keep the pledge. I love you my dear boy!

KATIE"

McCULLOCH AND THE BANKERS.

A deputation of bankers from the Eastern cities visited Washington, at the time of the issue of the 10-40 loan: and after an interview with Secretary Chase, at the Treasury Department, they were taken over the White House by Mr. McCulloch, then Comptroller of the Currency, to be introduced to the President Mr. Lincoln was writing at his desk by the window of his office as the party entered. Mr. McCulloch went to him, and, leaning over the desk, said: "Mr. President, I wish to introduce to you a number of financial gentlemen who have come to Washington to see about the new loan. As bankers they are obliged to hold our national securities and I can therefore vouch for their loyalty; for you know the good book says 'Where the treasure is, there will the heart be also!'"

Mr. Linclon, without looking up, instantly replied, "There is another version of that, Mr. McCulloch. The same book says, 'Where the carcass is, there will eagles be gathered together."

The recent Southern elections indicate that the whites do not generally vote. The reason is this: they expect the Democratic party will return to power in 1869, and then they will represent to their friends in power that all that was done in Georgia was the work of creatures never recognized as men by the Democracy, and that the real people of the State had nothing to do with it; and they could demand that all that had been done should be treated as if it were of no account, and the work of reconstruction be confided to the survivors of the late secession party.

During the war a lady passing from cot to cot through the wards of a hospital, was shocked to hear a fellow laughing at her. She stopped to reprove the wretch. "Why, look here, ma'am," says he, "you've given me a tract on the sin of dancing, when I've both legs shot off."

The Omaha Republican says of the recent election in the State; "In every other county in the State, in which a party contest was waged, the Republicans had gained hadsomely. Indeed we have carried every county in Nebraska, from which returns have been received, but Sarpy, even in that county the Republicans have elected thei candidate for Clerk, while the average Democratic majority on the residue of the ticket has been cut down to 25. Nebraska will give to the Republican candidate for President in 1868, several thousands majority; and we firmly believe that every one of the 36 counties of this State will be carried by the Republicans."

RAMBLES—No. 3.

MR. EDITOR—This being a pleasant morning, we will take another ramble, if you please. Let us go down Huron and Catharine streets to the Paper Mill. What think you of these composition sidewalks? Are they cheaper, better, and more durable than plank? There are no holes in them to catch your foot in; no nails or plank ends sticking up to trip you. Our friends, the lawyers, have pleasant location, here on the river bank.

In some parts of Washtenaw county machines are at work getting out peat for fuel; here is a good specimen of peat thrown out of this ditch, on the side of Catharine street; upon the side of the ditch the peat is nearly two feet thick. In some places peat is a common article of fuel; when properly prepared, it makes a substantial and hot fire. Here, too, in this black, moist soil is a great number of shells—they are the shells of land snails. A few days since, I picked up eight species of snails along the margin of the river; they are pretty plenty just below the mill dams. On the west side of the river, a short distance below the paper mill, there are some corn-fields; in those fields, where the land has been plowed, shells are found on the surface of the ground in great profusion, among them are the Helix albolabris, the white tipped Helix, and the Helix tridentata, the three toothed Helix or snail, both very pretty shells.

In some parts of the State there are large deposits of shells, forming Marl. This marl is sometimes called shell-lime, and marl-lime; it is used for all purposes that stone lime is used, but it does not generally make as strong work as the stone lime. Here, on the side of this same ditch, is a cropping out of Marl.

We will walk on and go into the paper mill, and see what they are doing. Here, in the second story, is where they bleach and grind the rags. Look at all these large tubs full of rags and water. The machinery keeps the mass in motion, and the rags are torn to pieces as they pass among the knives. In this tub, the rags have just entered upon the process of being torn to pieces; they pass from one roller to another, until here we find a tub where the mass is reduced to a fine pulp and is about ready to be let into the cistern and to be pumped from there to the paper machine. We will now go to the lower floor. Here, in this long narrow building, is a machine running the length of the room; it consists of rollers, cloths, cylinders, &c., and at the farther end is a cutting-machine. The pulp, with a great deal of water, is pumped from the cistern into one end of the machine, and as it passes along over and under and between several sets of rollers, the water is squeezed out and the pulp forms paper; as it passes over the steam cylinders, it becomes so dry that as it leaves the machine at the lower end it is cut into sheets of the requisite size, and taken care of by the one or two ladies who sit there to receive and take care of the sheets as they come from the machine.

Much use is made of straw in the manufacture of paper; the immense stacks of straw that we see just outside of the building will go through a similar process as the rags and be made into paper. The pulp looks very much like the pulp from rags; and paper can be made as white and nearly as strong from straw as from rags, while the cost of material must be much less.

In through this way are large boilers, where steam is generated to heat the cylinders. Do no not get caught in the machinery as we pass through this other long building—this is where one of the employes was somewhat injured the other day.

This Huron is a very busy river; it works its passage from fountain-head to the outlet. In turning mill wheels it helps to make cloth, flour, paper, &c. This, together with its by-play in tumbling over mill dams to get rid of work, giving attention to the call of water-rams, leaping into garden fountains and the upper stories of buildings, putting out fires, quenching the thirst of birds and horses that never drink whisky when they can get water, congealing to give skaters an opportunity to exhibit their skill in ice and lofty tumbling, driving against bridges and loosening their joints, taking hay-stacks down stream, &c., keeps it pretty busy both day and night.

Now we will return home by the road on the east side of the river. A good work has been done on this road by grading and graveling.

Report accepted and adopted, and the Marshal instructed to see that the recommendation of the Board is carried into effect.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES.

The special committtee appointed to investigate the feasibility of boring for an Artesian Well, reported that in their opinion a flowing well of water could be procured by boring to the depth of from 150 to 200 feet, and at an expense of about $100. And offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Mayor appoint a committee of three to negotiate with Mr. Wilson Berdan of Macon, to come here with his machine manufactured for the purpose of boring, as soon as the weather will permit, and do this work under the supervision of said committee.—The Mayor left the matter with the same committtee, viz: Alds. Batchelder, Putney and Stuck.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM,

THE REMEDY FOR CURING

Consumption, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Diseases of the Throat, Pains and Oppression of the Chest or Lungs, Difficult Breathing, and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

This BALSAM is introduced to the suffering public after its merits for the positive cure of such diseases have been fully tested. The formula from which it is prepared, is referred to by the leading medical journals as being equal to any prescription that can be made up for such diseases by the medical faculty. The BALSAM is, consequently, recommended by physicians who have become acquainted with its great success.

As an Expectorant it has no Equal

It is composed of the active principles of Roots and Plants, which are chemically extracted, to retain all their medicinal qualities.

MINISTERS AND PUBLIC SPEAKERS,

Who are so often afflicted with Throat Diseases, will find a sure remedy in this BALSAM. Lozengers and wafers sometimes give relief, but this BALSAM, taken a few times, will ensure a permanent cure.

WILL THE AFFLICTED CLERGYMAN PLEASE TEST ITS MERITS?

Testimonials of Physicians.

Dr. Nathaniel Harris, for many years a resident of Middlebury, Vermont, recommends the BALSAM as being superior to all other remedies for Bronchitis. He says:

"I have no doubt it will soon become a classical remedial agent for the cure of all diseases of the Throat, Bronchial Tubes, and the lungs."

Dr. Lloyd, of Ohio, surgeon in the army during the war, from exposure contracted consumption. He says:

"I have no hesitancy in stating that it was by the use of your LUNG BALSAM that I am now alive and enjoying health."

Dr. Fletcher, of Missouri, says:

"I recommend your BALSAM in preference to any other medicine for Coughs, and it gives satisfaction."

Physicians who have failed to cure their patients should try this medicine before they give the case up, as we know very many valuable lives have been saved by being persuaded to give it a trial.

DON'T DESPAIR because all other remedies have failed, but try this remedy and you will not be deceived.

The proprietors of this valuable BALSAM take pleasure in calling to it the attention of all medicine dealers, desiring that they procure a supply of it, and recommend it to their afflicted patrons and friends. It will stand the test for merits, as has the celebrated

Perry Davis' Pain Killer,

Which has been introduced to all parts of the inhabited world, and is every-where appreciated and sought after.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM

Is the remedy to cure all Lung and Throat difficulties. It should be thoroughly tested before using any other Balsam.

Make a Note of it.

We are now turning out job work for Chicago and Detroit, and for various points on the line of the Central R. R. between these two cities, including our sister city, Ann Arbor, besides other and remote places. This is the inevitable result of two causes; good work and low prices. We can assure our customers that we do not intend to be excelled either in quality or price of work.

Santa Claus' Travels.

We wish all our readers a Merry Christmas. The boys and girls, big and little, old and young, all are on tip-toe anticipating generous visits from Santa Claus. Santa Claus is a shrewd old chap. He has learned from rich and varied experience that the places to secure his large supplies are those that have a large and good stock—not ashamed of their goods, but are rather proud of them, thoroughly advertise them and attract the attention of the people to their merits.

Beginning on the north side of Congress street, the old fellow will call on Mrs. Carr. There he will get charming bonnets (if the modern style can be called bonnets,) fairy, airy, nice hats for the girls. On his way down the street he will be arrested by the sign of A. Williams. Mr. W. will extend a cordial hand, and the clerks, wreathed in smiles, will pile the counters with goods, furs, tippets, dress goods, etc. Having made a generous haul, he proceeds down street, passing in front of Noble, Dwelle & Robbins, he exclaims "Halloa! halloa! goods at N. Y. cost! Great closing out sale."—"Ah!" says he, "now is my time." He fairly sweats under his accumulated purchases here.

But then he must have another class of goods, and leaving his load in charge of "Briggs," the Drayman, he sweeps into Sampson's. The proprietor, smiling from head to foot, says, "help yourself freely," and the toys, etcetera slide away wondrously.

It is hard for the kind Santa Claus to pass a jewelry shop without stopping. He does stop at Dodge's and, fascinated by the fine gold watches, rich and fashionable jewelry of all the latest style; solid silver ware, plated ware, tea setts, &c. He fills his bag to repletion, causing the eyes of many a matron to twinkle with delight.

Trudging down the street, he sees standing in a doorway one of the "merriest fellows in town," a particular favorite. "Sam" grasps his arms around him, and, giving him a tremendous hug, shouts, "Welcome, thrice welcome, old chap!" and scarcely giving him time to recover his breath, takes him around the store, expatiating on the importance of making useful presents. The eyes of Santa Claus fairly twinkle seeing the rich dress goods. "Ah," says he, "many a loving wife and many a pretty little girl shall be made glad from my visit here." He is about to leave. "Stop! stop!" shouts Post, pointing to the stairway. Leading the way the "merry old man" follows. What a sight! In orderly profusion, clothing for the million.

"Jim and Pete, Bill and Jerry, won't they kick up their heels for joy," exclaims Santa Claus, "when I shall have transferred these coats, vests and pants to their backs. Ha! ha! ha! Old Boreas, we have got you now."

Away he glides, leaving "Sam" mightily tickled. His profits on each parcel have been small, but on a big pile he has made a pile.

He can't get by the next door. He has been reading THE COMMERCIAL, and saw there

"TO BE GIVEN AWAY, $10,000 HOLIDAY—PRESENTS—SMITH BROS. Ain't they jolly brothers, though? A little ahead yet.—"Briggs, take care of what you have already got."

And he plunges into the store fairly bewildered by the dazzling splendor. The nice bound books, toys of every description, "If I have to take time to look around here, I shant get through in a week." So he makes a promiscuous haul, gathering up an amazing big armful, settles the bill surprised at its being so small for the amount that he has purchased, and away he goes. Is about to sweep around the corner, when "Glover" hails him. Calling in, Henderson shows him the beautiful variety of ladies' and misses' goods. "What a mistake I should have made, if I had failed to call here." Emptying a few shelves of their precious burden, he bethinks himself of some shoeless boys and girls, and marches back up to Aber's, purchasing a generous supply, he crosses over to the other side of the street, ordering "Briggs" to prepare his dray for a huge load. Says the captain, "All hail! old fellow; we are ready for you." Parlor setts, bed-room setts, etc., melt away like the dew before the morning sun. Mc Andrew & Co. are left richer, if not wiser men.

But won't a Buffalo robe be a nice present? On his way up to Coon's, he stops at C. L. Yosts and gets a few choice robes, fresh from St. Paul. That "old Coon" chuckles all over as he sees Santa Claus coming. They are old friends—hale fellows well met. A few complete setts of furniture are carried away from the old and well known house.

Perchance, some may be hungry, and he sends a few choice turkeys, chickens and steaks from the markets of McCormick & Shelmire. Also Martin & Hopkins. He goes straight to the finished store of Frost & Whedon. His eye waters at the sight—so tasty and splendid, "Nice fellows, these." The children rejoice that they ever come to town, and Santa Claus too. "I must visit my friends, Woodford & Van Dorn—nice fits, there. Balmorals will make many ladies skip and hop for joy. Some people will smoke. Santa Claus though not among the number, yet wishing to please everybody, even the ministers and deacons, crosses the street to Stone's. Stone claps his hands. "Now, my fragrant cigars will be appreciated," and he hands down from the shelf, box after box and meershamus without number. He leaves him a merrier man.

Santa Claus, being an old, long-tried friend of Vail's hies hither and crowds all his pockets with nice confectionery, bags a lot of oysters and departs.

Well, well, say the children, old Santa-claus is wearied. Not a bit of it. Rejoicing in his glorious mission, he crosses the Cross St. bridge, stops at Martins. What a chance to load up anew. Martin is good natured. He knows he can suit Santaclaus every time. Little boots and nice gaiters disappear fast. Not having completed his assortment from the big stock of Bickford & Camp, he stops at J. K. Heartt & Bro., fills out his order for skates, pocket knives &c. Crossing the street he visits Stebbins & Durand. They hail the visitor with pleasure, remembering what a large haul the "old chap" made at their store last year. Finding a nicer stock this year, he lays in hugely, groceries are useful, and many an ardent lover of tea is made happy. "Kingsbury's!" shouts Santaclaus. No nicer, or better place in town. I have many little friends to supply with presents yet, and this is just the place to do it. His eye ranges over the long line of christmas goods and he orders the whole pile. The portly proprietor is hilarious, rubs his hands, and exclaims, "I meant to beat the whole fraternity of competitors this year, and I guess I have done it." Of course Wm. K. Horner's neat, compact store, well filled with Gunpowder, Oolong and Japan Teas, Coffees, articles useful and fanciful to make the heart merry will claim Santaclaus attention. And what nicer than beautiful porcelain pictures? Santaclaus calls at the N. Y. Gallery and gets a goodly number. The old chap goes back over the river and gets a generous supply of Spencer's Baltimore Oysters at Foote's

Moses Coyt Tyler at Hewitt Hall.

He prefaced his lecture with thanks to the Normals for their third invitation to lecture before them.

His theme was "John Bright." Described in a humorous manner his first attempt at oratory. He persevered until he became one of the greatest Statesmen in the world.

Cobden brought him first to the public during the incipient agitation of breaking down the oppressive corn laws. Said Cobden, "Come with us, and we will never yield until we have broken down monopoly." This was in 1839. In 1843, he was elected to the House of Commons, and has been a member ever since, except a brief interim. When even the London Times, his most bitter foe, lamented his absence and demanded his re-election. He made a most effective allusion to Louis Napoleon, contrasting the Tyrant with Bright and Garibaldi. The latter, the prisoner of him to whom he gave a tripple crown. He exalted the noble word "poltician," and scathingly criticised those politicians who advocate wrong from policy. When the Mahomedan enters a Mosque, he leaves his sandals outside. Too many men enter politics, and leave the conscience outside. Bright carried his conscience with him—unselfish, Hence a terror to the English Oligarchy.

An eternal law that people will not believe a public speaker unless the heart sends the burning, throbbing telegraphic words down between the conscience and tongue—words must be red-hot with moral earnestness. John Bright not only follows the leadings of conscience, but he believes in man. The English snobs and aristocracy believe in real estate, horses, cattle, etc., as far above man. He philosophized truly. It is not the occupation that ennobles, but the spirit in which a man works, making shoes for instance. He developed the hatred of Bright's being an English-American in his ideas—a Democrat. But how beloved he is by the common people. His sway over masses in carrying a campaign by a single joke, that turned the tide in favor of the radicals, was fairly illustrated in the case of the ferrier.

The lecture was a very interesting one, and commanded the close attention of the audience. We learned to appreciate more the great commoner, orator and statesman the champion of America and Democracy. Mr. Tyler spoke in eloquent terms of John Bright's advocacy of our course during the war. We hope the Normals will keep on inviting Mr. Tyler to lecture before them. And every time he lectures may we be there.

"HOW CAN YOU BLOOM SO FRESH AND FAIR?" goes the old Scotch songs How? Why, those who show the bloom of health on their cheeks take Plantation Bitters, which has the power of fortifying the system against disease, and of regulating the digestive adparatus. Are you dispeptic, weak, void of energy? Have you little or no appetite, headache, continued lassitude and deprssion of spirits? Take S. T.—1860—X., and bloom and beauto will return. THE "PERFECT SEWING MACHINE."—Mr. A. BACKUS, M. D., of Rochestor, in his letter of May 7, 1866, says of a Sewing Machine which has been in use in his family for four years: "It makes a remarkably strong seam, which never rips when properly sewed. It has never been out of order; nor have we ever broken a needle. It is noisless in its operation; does its work thoroughly, and satisfactorily; and is always ready for use. I can conscientiously recommend it to those requiring a perfect sewing machine."—That machine, it is hardly necesssary to add, is the Wilcox & Gibbs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

IS a soothing expectorant, prepared to meet the urgent need of a safe and reliable curt for diseases of the throat and lungs. A trial of many years has established the fact, that it is more efficacious in pulmonary affections, than any other remedy. Its efficacy has now become so generally known, that it is justly regarded in many countries as a medicine of indispensable necessity. In Great Britain, France, and Germany, where medical science has reached its highest perfection, it is prescribed in domestic practice, and constantly used in the armies, in hospitals and other public institutions, where it is regarded by the attending physcians as the most speedy and agreeable remedy that can be employed Scarcely any neighborhood can be found where well known cases of diseased lungs, which had baffled the efforts of the most skillful and experienced doctors, have been permanently cured by it. These results are the most convincing properties of this preparation; and to them the authors point with peculiar satisfaction. While it is most powerful against confirmed diseases, it is extremely gentle as a medicine in infancy and youth, being quite harmless to even the youngest, when administrated judiciously.

This health-restorer accomplishes even more by prevention than cure. If taken in season, it heals all irritations of the throat and lungs, whether arising from Colds or Coughs, or from other causes, and thus prevent that long train of painful and incurable diseases, which would arise from the neglect of them, Hence no family should be without it. Influenza, Croup, Hoarseness, affections of the breathing organs give way before this pre-emient combination of medical virtues.

AMERICAN WALTHAM

WATCHES

The true value of Machinery applied to Watchmaking is not that by its use Watches are made rapidly, but that they are made correctly. Very few people know why a Waltham Watch should be superior to any other. In the first place, at Waltham the Watch is regarded only as a machine, to be constructed like any other machine, on mechanical principles. If the watches are good, it is because the machinery is good. Of course there must be no defect in the principles or plan of the movement—no mistake in the sizes or shapes of the pieces of which it is composed—nothing wanting in their properties, and no error in their positions. These points once thoroughly settled, it rests wholly with the machinery, constructed with infinate diversity of form and function expressly for the purpose, to produce the finished pieces. By means of multiplying gauges and microscopes, tests and inspection for the detection of wear in the cutting tools, and for faults and flaws in steel or stone are made to accompany the work in every stage from beginning to end. As a necessary result, the watch goes together a perfect machine. Every part is found to fit perfectly in its place. Every pin may be pushed till it pinches, and every screw turned home. Instead of a sluggish and feeble action, the balance, even under the pressure of the lightest mainspring, vibrates with a wide and free motion, and the beat has the clear ringing sound always characteristic of the Waltham Watch. The machine is a timekeeper from the start.

This system of watchmaking is unknown in foreign countries, and is entirely original with the Waltham Company. The Company claim that by it they produce watches that cannot be equalled for every quality which make a watch valuable. Simple in plan and correct in principles, the movement is not only beautifully finished, substantial, accurate and cheap, but is uniform in the minutest details, not easily damaged, and when repaired always as good as new. There are different grades of finish in the different varieties of watches made by the Waltham Company, as there are different sizes and shapes to suit all tastes and means; but every Watch that bears the genuine trade-mark of "WALTHAM" is guarantied to be a good one, and nobody need be afraid to buy it.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

ADDRESS TO THE NERVOUS AND DEBILITATED whose sufferings have been protracted from hidden causes, and whose cases require prompt treatment to render existence desirable. If you are suffering or have suffered from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired; Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys, frequently get out of orde? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky, or flocky, or is it ropy on settling? Or does a thick scum rise to the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspepsia? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling upon this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, moping, tired of company, of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody? Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye brilliant? The bloom on your cheek as bright? Do you enjoy yourself in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so, do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have nervous nt'se nights Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver complaint?

Now, reader, self-abuse venereal diseases badly cured, and sexuel excesses, are all capabab e of producting a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, persevering, successful business-men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart. They are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—none of your downcast looks or any other meanness about them. I do not mean those who keep the organs inflamed by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men from badly-cured diseases, from the effects of self-abuse and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in those organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—idiocy, lunacy, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have doctored for all but the right one.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a diuretic. HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU is the great Diuretic, and is a certain cure for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, Dropsy, Organic Weakness, Female Complaints, General Debility, and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating and no matter of how long standing.

If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or Insanity may ensue. Our flesh and blood are supported from these sources, and the health and happiness, and that of Prosterity, depends upon prompt use of a reliable remedy.

SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC.

This medicine, invented by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, is intended to dissolve the food and make it into chyme, the first process of digestion. By cleansing the stomach with Schenck's Mandrake Pills, the Tonic soon restores the appetite, and food that could not be eaten before using it will be easily digested.

Consumption cannot be cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup unless the stomach and liver is made healthy and the appetite restored, hence the Tonic and Pills are required in nearly every case of consumption. A half dozen bottles of the SEAWEED TONIC and three or four boxes of the MANDRAKE PILLS will cure any ordinary case of dyspepsia.

Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits in New York, Boston, and at his principal Office in Philadelphia every week. See daily papers of each place, or his pamphlet on consumption for his days for visitation.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor, one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health, are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half-dozen. All letters for advice should be addressed to Dr. SCHENCK'S Principal Office, No. 15 North 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

AN INVALUABLE MEDICINE
FOR THE PURIFYING OF THE BLOOD.

DR. J. W. POLAND'S

HUMOR DOCTOR.

A Positive Remedy for all Kinds of Humors,

PARTICULARLY

Erysipelas, Nettle-Rash, Salt Rheum, Scrofula, Carbuncles, Boils, and Piles.

It is very easy to say of this, or of any other medicine, "It is the very best remedy known." It is not always so easy to prove it. It is, however, exceedingly gratifying to the Proprietor of this medicine, that, while he declares to the public that this is a most wonderful and effective specific for Humors, as stated above, he has abundant proof at hand to sustain his statement.

For sixteen years the HUMOR DOCTOR has been manufactured and sold, and every year has increased the value of its reputation, and the amount of its sales. In New Hampshire, where it originated, no remedy for Humors is so highly prized. An eminent physician (now an army surgeon) when practising in New Hampshire, purchased between fifty and sixty gallons of it, during some seven or eight years, and used it in his practice. He has since then ordered it for the hospital where he was stationed. Other physicians have purchased it, and have used it in practice with great success. When the Proprietor lived in New Hampshire, at Goffstown Centre, for the space of thirty or forty miles around, and in Manchester particularly, the HUMOR DOCTOR was well known and highly valued for the numerous and wonderful cures which it effected. Though the manufacture of it in large quantities the supply was soon [illegible] exhausted, and purchasers had to wait [illegible] to get made. In that region some very severe cases of Erysipelas were treated with it—and they were cured! Erysipelas sores, or carbuncles, those ugly, painful ulcers, were entirely relieved. Whenever this medicine was faithfully used it [illegible] with Scrofula and Salt Rheum. The HUMOR DOCTOR cured them.

For the sake of showing what is thought of it, a few testimonials are hereinserted:

Milton Gale, Esq., Boston.

"I hereby certify that I have been very badly afflicted with Salt Rheum for nine years, that it broke out on my hands, sometimes upon my limbs and other parts of my body. The sufferings which I endured from them are indescribable. Suffice it to say, that I have tried almost everything, and tried several of the most popular human remedies, but without removing the disease. At length, yielding to the earnest request of an intimate friend, I was induced to try Dr. J. W. Poland's Humor Doctor, and am very happy to state that all marks were removed, and my health fully restored by using Dr. Poland's above named medicine.

BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1856. MILTON GALE.

Mr. Wm. Wesler, Stoneham, Mass.

"I cheerfully and earnestly recommend Dr. J. W. Poland's Humor Doctor as an excellent remedy for Humors, having been wonderfully benefited by it myself. My own case was a very severe and obstinate one. For more than two years the skin upon the inside of both my hands, and even down on the wrist, was constantly cracked and broken up, so that I was unable to use my hands in any kind of wet work, and was obliged to wear gloves in sewing to avoid getting blood upon my work. The humor which so afflicted me was probably a combination of Erysipelas and Salt Rheum. My general health was quite poor. Soon after I began to use the Humor Doctor I could perceive signs of healing. I continued to take the medicine till I was finally cured. My hands are now perfectly free from humors, and to all appearances my whole system is cleansed of it, and has been for several months. I used eight bottles before I felt safe to give it up entirely, but they cured me.

HARRIET WHEELER.

STONEHAM, Mass., July 5, 1856.

Mrs. Porter, Dover, N. H.

DOVER, N. H., July 29, 1855.

DR. POLAND: I received your letter inquiring as to the effects of your medicine on sea-sickness. I am happy to say that I think it is "the medicine" for that dreadful sickness. I tried various prescriptions, but I find none that settled the stomach and cleared the head like the Humor Doctor. I felt as though I could hardly wait to get ashore, to entreat you to introduce it into ship chandlery stores, that it may find its way to those who suffer upon the mighty deep from sea-sickness. If captains who take their families with them or carry passengers, should try it for a voice, they would never be willing to voyage without it.

Yours, HARRIET M. PORTER.

Much more might be stated in relation to this medicine, as contained in testimonials; but it is needless. Ask Manchester druggists about it, especially E. W. Blake, at Burr's. Inquire of Mr. Henry Plumer, of Bedford, whose wife was cured by it of Salt Rheum. Ask or consult any person in Goffstown, and they will testify to its value as a remedy, as used in their own cases or by their friends.

HALL'S
Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer

Has stood the test of seven years trial by the public; and no preparation for the hair yet discovered will produce the same beneficial results. It is a new scientific discovery, combining the most powerful and restorative agents in the VEGETABLE KINGDOM. It restores GRAY HAIR TO ITS ORIGINAL YOUTHFUL COLOR. It makes the scalp white and clean; cures dandruff and humors, and falling out of the hair; and will make it grow upon bald heads, except in very aged persons, as it furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft, and glossy, and is unsurpassed as a HAIR DRESSING. It is the cheapest preparation ever offered to the public, as one bottle will accomplish more and last longer than three bottles of any other preparation.

It is recommended and used by the First Medical Authority.

The wonderful results produced by our Sicilian Hair Renewer have induced many to manufacture preparations for the Hair, under various names; and in order to induce the trade and the public to purchase their compounds, they have resorted to falsehoods, by claiming they were former partners, or had some connection with our Mr. Hall, and their preparation was similar to ours. Do not be deceived by them! Purchase the original: it has never been equalled. Our Treatise on the Hair, with certificates, sent free by mail. See that each bottle has our private Revenue Stamp over the top of the bottle. All others are imitations.

As the forms of disease which we propose to describe the origin in the blood, let the sufferer remember that no nerves ever and any disease will afford him permanent relief, because it cannot reach the CAUSE. PERSECUTING THE HAIR.

All preparations for dressing the hair are uncleanly or noxious, but the ingredients used in producing instantaneous dyes are positively pernicious and dangerous.

They often produce baldness, and frequently even paralyze the optic nerve. Inflammation of the scalp and painful eruptions are the result of their profuse use, in delicate organizations. And yet these chemicals are seldom, if ever, successful in creating a natural color, while they generally induce a contrast so marked with the complexion of skin as to call attention to the incongruous combination. When gray hairs dyed are black and the trick is discovered, the moral as well as the physical contrast is painful to contemplate. Every age has its own style of beauty; and the mellow ripeness of gray hairs has an autumnal charm to which no artistic eye is indifferent. But an old man with dyed locks!—

Vanvuelin, the eminent French chemist, proved that hair contains two kinds of oils—the first (common to all hair,) white and black; the second, colored and special—and the cause of distinctive color of individual varieties. He found, also, the presence of mineral properties in hair—of magnesia in the light colored, and of iron and sulphur in the dark colored samples. Indeed sulphur exists in all hair, as can be seen by boiling a lock of hair in a solution of potash, holding a little oxide of lead combined. The hair dissolves; the solution turns black. This test is regarded as decisive; because sulphur is the only substance that can turn lead oxide black. "This experiment," says an English writer, "immediately suggests a possible means of dyeing hair black. Accordingly, solute preparations of lead do happen to have attained a bad celebrity as hair dyes: bad, for the reason that they are extremely poisonous even when absorbed through the pores of the skin. From this cause have arisen lamentable instances of lead colic and paralysis."

An American writer says and proves that many popular "instantaneous" hair dyes contain sulphur and acetate of lead, and adds:—

"The active properties of sugar of lead are exceedingly subtile. They readily penetrate the external skin and exert their deleterious influence on the sensitive skin beneath. The nerves, and even the arteries and the substance of the membranes are sometimes injured by the metalic salt. Its presence within the skin is often manifested by a debilitation of the optic nerve, which greatly impairs the sight. The acuteness of the sense of hearing also at times becomes greatly impaired, and I have known a complete prostration of the nervous system to follow the application of this popular but dangerous poison."

Six well-known and widely advertised liquid dyes contain this deadly ingredient.

Other dyes differ so slightly from common ink that they can be easily used for writing. What a disgusting liquid to pour over the crowning glory of gray locks!

Of late years, according to Dr. Perry, since chemical science has been trained into service in the ordinary affairs of life, it has been discovered that the nitrate of silver constitutes a very efficient basis of dyes, and it is now extensively used for deepening the color of the hair. It is a costly material, compared with sulphate of iron and gall nuts, and hence has not come into so general employment as might otherwise have been expected.

He adds that the preparation in which this material is the active ingredient very more in form than in properties. Thus, we have a pomade, applied with brush and comb, composed of nitrate of silver, cream of tarter, ammoniac and prepared lard. A paste is also made of nitrate of silver, protonitrate of mercury and distilled water, thickened with starch. It is applied in the evening, the head being kept covered with a cap of gummed taffeta during the night, and in the morning the paste is washed of and the hair anointed. But the compounds most generally used are in a liquid form, and are usually termed 'instantaneous' liquid hair dyes; some of them, however, not quite so prompt in action, are styled "atmospheric" dyes. The "instantaneous" dyes consist for the most part, of two liquids—the first are acidulated mordant or base, sometimes called a setting, and the other containing the silver which is universally the basis of the "instantaneous" dyes.

MORAL.

Leave nature alone—and not force her; and your reward is sure. But seek to thwart her, and instead of beauty she will yield you hideousness, and instead of honor you shall reap a full harvest of disrespect. Be true in hair as in speech! Dyeing is only one form of lying—and deception never prospers, whether it hides its hollownese in language or in looks! TWEED.

CATARRH.

With catarrh you have congestion of brain, dyspepsia, and torpid liver, with impurity of blood.

Rise at a particular time in the morning. Exercise gently. Rest in bed from twelve to half-past one every day. Go to bed every night at eight o'clock.

Two days in a week take a dripping sheet at half-past eleven; and two other days in the week take a sitz bath at 85 deg., 15 minutes. Rub well afterwards, and go immediately to bed. Avoid working hard. Live out of doors, and exercise in the afternoon by walking, or riding on horseback, or in a buggy.

Do not eat between meals. Eat but two meals a day, at eight and at three. Chew your food well, and eat slowly. Keep the bowels open by injections, if they are costive. Keep the hands and feet always warm. Do not allow them to get cold.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
Hoofland's German Tonic.

Prepared by Dr. C. M. JACKSON,

PHILADELPHIA, PA.

The Great Remedies for all Diseases OF THE LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Hoofland's German Bitters

Is composed of the pure juices (or, as they are medicinally termed, Extracts) of Roots, Herbs and Barks, making a preparation, highly concentrated, and entirely free from Alcoholic admixture of any kind.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum, Orange, etc., making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcoholic admixture, will use

Hoofland's German Bitters,

In cases of nervous depression, when some alcoholic stimulus is necessary,

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

should be used.

The Bitters or the Tonic are both equally good, and contain the same medicinal virtues.

The stomach, from a variety of causes, such as Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Nervous Debility, etc., is very apt to have its functions deranged. The result of which is, that the patient suffers from several or more of the following diseases:

Constipation, Flatulence, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for Food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried or Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, etc., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

These remedies will effectually cure Liver Complaint, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Chronic or Nervous Debility, Chronic Diarrhœa, Disease of the Kidneys, and all Diseases arising from a Di-ordered Liver, Stomach, or Intestines.

DEBILITY,

Resulting from any Cause whatever; PROSTRATION OF THE SYSTEM, induced by Severe Labor, Hardships, Exposure, Fevers, etc.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole System, the Appetite is Strengthened, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests promptly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the cheeks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy being.

Persons Advanced in Life,

And feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all its attendant ills, will find in the use of this BITTERS, or the TONIC, an elixir that will infuse new life in o their veins, restore in a measure the energy and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

It is a well-established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom the enjoyment of good health; or, use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the BITTERS, or the TONIC, is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN

Are made strong by the use of either of these remedies. They will cure every case of MARASMUS, without fail.

Thousands of certificates have accumulated in the hands of the proprietor, but space will allow of the publication of but a few. Those, it will be observed, are men of note and of such standing that they must be believed.

TESTIMONIALS.

Hon. Geo. W. Woodward.

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes:

Philadelphia, March 16, 1867.

"I find 'Hoofland's German Bitters' is a good tonic, useful in cases of debility, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours truly,

GEO. W. WOODWARD."

Hon. James Thompson.

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

"I consider 'Hoofland's German Bitters' a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it.

Yours, with respect,

JAMES THOMPSON."

From Rev. Joseph H. Kennard, D. D.,

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia.

Dr. Jackson—Dear Sir I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of medicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various instances and particularly in my own family, of the usefulness of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debility of the system, and especially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and valuable preparation. In some cases it may fail; but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully,

J. H. KENNARD,

Eighth, below Coates St.

From Rev. E. D. Fendall,

Assistant Editor Christian Chronicle, Philadelphia.

I have derived decided benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, and feel it my privilege to recommend them as a most valuable tonic, to all who are suffering from general debility or from diseases arising from derangement of the liver. Yours truly,

E. D. FENDALL.
